tionably, are dull, but on the whole it is effective. The music has surprising freshness. The overture, with which everybody is familiar, is a triumph. The choruses, partaking somewhat too much of the oratorio form, are compelling. The individual numbers, nearly all, have charm. Fancy a modern composer withholding the first appearance of his prima-donna until the second act!

The Aborns are holding to their promise of betterment in production. "William Teil" as they presented it last night, without thought of the price of seats, is worthy of any opera house, and the cause of opera in English is distinctly and second and free from election or many parts. ## A Comprehensive, Authoritative Style Showing

For Women and Misses Opens the Season Formally for Fall and Winter in Apparel

YOU ARE VERY CORDIALLY INVITED to attend a Style Exhibit introducing the Fall and Winter Fashlons for Women and Misses, on Thursday and Friday-a SUPERB BUT PRACTICAL EXPOSITION of all that is new in Gowns, Wraps, Suits, Dresses, Waists, Furs, Hats and Other Apparel, on the Second floor, Central Building, and in the French Millinery Salon, Second floor, East Building.

PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING CHANGE IN METHOD OF EXHIBITING:

The garments this year will be displayed on lay figures from the opening of the store until the closing on the two days of the exhibit, Thursday and Friday, instead of during limited hours, thus permitting customers to . study the styles and materials at leisure and with more appreciation of individual detail.

The plan of the review on living models of other years did not permit that personal, nearer inspection which we are very anxious to encourage this year, owing to the beauty of the materials, the radical change in styles and the wonderfully moderate prices for these masterpieces of modern tailoring and dressmaking. Only close, individual examination and study can make you fully appreciate the unusual values as well as the beauty of the styles in this store this season.

Our superior facilities abroad and at home have been very valuable in the conditions existing. They permit us to present a style exhibit impossible this season for many stores and unsurpassed by any in the city. Most of the gowns have been inspired models received within the past two or three weeks from France. We think our showing for 1914-15 is the most attractive, stylish, fascinatingly effective collection of new apparel that even this store has ever announced.

There is unusual exclusiveness in style and even more exclusiveness in the low prices. We are perfectly sure that no other store will approach this exhibit as a demonstration of moderate pricing on highest quality and style.
